

Lecture announcement

Private law of international trade transactions

Contents:

The course focuses on the contract law of cross border sales, esp. under the United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods (CISG).

- Introduction: Contracts in international trade relationships
- Private international law of contracts
- Introduction to and applicability of the CISG
- Selected private law topics governed by CISG and by national law (from a comparative point of view)
- Standard contract clauses in international trade: INCOTERMS
- Documentary credit and payment instruments in international trade transactions

Learning targets and skills:

Students get to know the legal structure of sales contract law and the specific topics related to cross border contracts. CISG is used as a model as most national laws contain comparable rules for B2B-sales contracts. Students learn about important differences in national laws regarding topics not governed by CISG. Moreover students get to know the relevance and meaning of INCOTERMS and the legal mechanism to facilitate international trade by using documentary instruments in the exchange of goods and payment.
